WHEN ..THE.. SMOKE.. CLEARS

-- Where the imprisoned spirit.. has yet to be broken by state oppression,
Can be sustained and revived...

By you and I. And by SOLIDARITY.

By everyone here. We urged You on...
By OUR Common Revolutionary Beliefs...

IF YOU DIE YOU DIE ... But never Surrender ...

Never make the enemy stronger.. Who oppresses us all...

Never give up. Never Retreat.

Never roll-over. Never Debrief.

WHEN... THE.. SMOKE.. CLEARS..

We Will Be There...

We will be there..

For those... Who no longer are...

WHEN .. THE.. SMOKE.. CLEARS..

To Each.. His own contribution ... His own Conscience...

Never give up.. Never back down.

Make your personal contribution ... to the struggle.. Your life's work.

And Stay strong.

WHEN THE SMOKE CLEARS...

WHEN.. THE.. SMOKE.. CLEARS ...
when the smoke clears ...

The enemy has many masks and the ideologies that drive it are centuries old now, the gluttonous appetite for money and power of those addicted. I will not give up and it's not over until it's over. Speak, organize, demonstrate, pray, help the poor and oppressed, be a good example, and most of all "don't ever give up!"

Leonard Peltier #89637-132 Native American Political Prisoner

HISTORY OF BLACK AUGUST CONCEPT AND PROGRAM

Black August originated in the California penal system in the 1970s. Many significant events in the New African Nation's struggle for justice and liberation have occurred in August. The commemoration of Black August particularly hails the advances and sacrifices of Black Freedom Fighters.

Following are several pages of authentic information on Black August provided by Doc Holiday, an original comrade of George Jackson and a longtime figure in the Black Liberation and prison struggle. Doc is presently in prison in Marion, Illinois.

The month of August gained special significance and importance in the Black Liberation Movement beginning with a courageous attempt by Jonathan Jackson to demand the freedom of political prisoners/prisoners of war which the Soledad Brothers' case were the center of attention.

On August 7, 1970 Jonathan Jackson, William Christmas, James McClain, and Ruchell Magee were gunned down outside the Marin County Courthouse.

Ruchell Clingue M lange remains the sole survivor of that bid for liberation, he also remains a POW at Folsom prison doing life. Through this rebellion was put down by gory pigs and their agents it was internalized within the hearts and minds of the people on the outside in the larger prison as well as those in the concentration camps (prison), internalized in the same fashion as we honor other heroic African Freedom Fighters, who sacrificed their lives for the people and the liberation.

On August 21, 1971, almost exactly a year following the slave rebellion at Marin County Courthouse, George L. Jackson (older brother of Jonathan Jackson as well as one of the Soledad brothers) whose freedom was the primary demand of the Marin rebellion, was assassinated at San Quentin prison in an alleged rebellion, was assassinated at San Quentin prison in an alleged rebellion, was popular beyond prison, not because he was a Soledad Brother, but also because of the movement. Jackson was also very popular beyond prison, not its constituency. George Jackson was a highly respected and purposed influential leader in the Revolutionary Prison Movement. Jackson was a Soledad Brother beyond prison, not only because he was a Soledad Brother, but also because of the book he authored appropriately entitled "Soledad Brother." This book not only revealed to the public the inhumane and degrading conditions in prison, he more importantly, correctly pointed to the real cause of those effects in prison as well as in society, a capitalist-corporate medical politics. Khatari was another capitalist-corporate medical politics. Khatari was a blatant assassin of San Quentin was a victim of a blatant assassination by Freedon Fighter and Prisoner of War, captured within the walls of San Quentin to our sisters and brothers that are currently held in the various camps throughout California. Yet without a doubt it is inclusive of these sisters and brothers and moving toward a better understanding of the nature and relationship of prison to oppressed and colonized people.

No matter our personal agenda, Name, Race, Color or aspiration, Right-together. Against the common enemy .. And love your imprisoned brother.

Stop the Killing and Come Together.

So it should be clearly understood that Black August is a reflection and commemoration of history; of those heroic partisans and leaders that realistically made it possible for us to survive and advance to our present level of liberation struggle. People such as: Nat Turner, Harriet Tubman, Gabril Prosser, Frederick Douglas, W.E. DuBois, Marcus Garvey, Paul Roberson, Rosa Parks, M.L. King, Malcolm X, and numerous others in our more contemporary period. It must be further clarified that when we speak of "Culture Development," we are not advocating Cultural Nationalism and/or merely talking about adopting African names, jewellery, dashikis, etc. Our primary interest lies not only in where we came from, but the nature of "WHY" we were forcefully brought here, understanding the character of "CONTINUOUS" struggle with the recognition that it is a Protracted struggle and developing the necessary lifestyles to guarantee its success.

August 20, 1619—First born Afrikan captives were brought to England's North Amerikan colony of Jamestown, Virginia.

August 16, 1768—Charlestown, South Carolina rebellious Afrikan slaves (known as maroons) engaged British military forces in bloody battle defending their camp which was a haven for fugitive slaves.

August 30, 1800—Day set for launching Gabrier Prossers revolt. On this day over 1000 armed slaves gathered to endeavor to secure their liberty, however bad weather forced them to postpone the revolt and betrayal ultimately led to the crushing of their physical force.

August 21, 1831—Slave revolt launched under the leadership of Nat Turner which lasted four days and resulted in fifty-one slaveholders and their loved ones being subjected to revolutionary People's justice.

August 29, 1841—Street skirmish took place in Cincinnati between Afrikan and Euro-Amerikan, wherein for five days Afrikans waged valiant struggle in defense of their women, children and property against brutal racist terror campaigns.

August 14, 1842—There were at least three Seminole US wars and one of them ended on August 14, 1842. Though some will ask, what does an Indian American war have to do with Black August? Well that's because the nature of the Seminole's and the real reasons behind their raging wars with the Americans is hidden beneath the mists of history. The very name Seminole derives from the American Spanish term for

Of the small group of rebels who tried, unsuccessfully, to seize an American armory and ferment rebellion among the slaves. But years before Harper's Ferry, John Brown had waged war against pro-slavery forces in Osawatomie, Kansas, some three months earlier. The fighting in Kansas led to excited reports about bleeding Kansas. What they were tough, nasty border wars between anti and pro-slavery forces. Each trying to dominate the other. Indeed, Brown was called Osawatomie Brown before Harper's Ferry marked him as a martyr for the sacred cause of freedom.

The English in Jamaica called their runaways maroons from the same root word. The Seminoles were once part of the Creek Confederacy, but unlike many of their contemporaries they forged close and lasting relationships with runaway Africans and habitually refuse American demands for the return of slaves to white service. The American general who fought in the Seminole wars, Thomas Jessup, Negro not an Indian war, General Jessup wrote those words because he had become their kinfolk. It is noteworthy that of all the Indian wars fought against the Americans the Seminole wars cost the most American lives.

BLACK AUGUST PROGRAM

Most standard history books tend to either play down or ignore New African resistance as a factor in the destruction in the slave economy. On the other hand, when one understands New Africans are still an oppressed nation, the reason for such deception becomes clear. Black August contends that not only was such resistance a factor in the destruction of the slave economy, but New African resistance to slavery continues to

WHO / Only recently / got himself onto the prison mainline --

The sixties was a further example of New African resistance to national oppression. It should be emphasized here that that struggle of non-violence was at that time a strategy of illegality, of danger, of arousing New Africans to direct confrontation with the colonial oppressor. Whether it was a sit-in at a segregated lunch counter or bus station, the movement deliberately broke the colonial law.

Inevitably the anti-colonial struggle moved to a higher level, growing beyond the initial stage of non-violent civil rights forcing an entrenched settler's colonial regime to change. Black August purports that it is important to briefly mention Black August avers that at a time when the Black Nation is experiencing the destruction of its community through planned gentrification, at a time when the quality of New African life is being blunted through unemployment, prison, drugs, high infant mortality and poverty, the call of New African organization should be one of resistance.

Black August resists that New Africans have a historical perspective of Africans to arise to the historical task of defending the Nation, it summer heat. Black August asserts that in order for New Black August avers that at a time when the Black Nation is experiencing the destruction of its community through planned gentrification, at a time when the quality of New African life is being blunted through unemployment, prison, drugs, high infant mortality and poverty, the call of New African organization should be one of resistance.

Exploration of previously pent-up National Consciousness took place among New Africans.

The sixties was a further example of New African resistance to national oppression. It should be emphasized here that that
